Technical Appendix

Sample Size

The results of this opinion poll are based upon a representative sample of 917 eligible Irish voters aged 18 years+.

Fieldwork

As such, the results can be deemed to be accurate to within plus or minus 3.3 percentage points at the 95% confidence level. Fieldwork was conducted on an in-home, face-to-face basis over the period Thursday 6th to Tuesday, 18th January 2022.

Location

The sample was stratified across all constituencies at 125 locations in the country with individuals selected for interview by way of Demographic Quotas (age, gender, socio-economic status) in line with Central Statistics Office (CSO) and market research industry population estimates.

Weighting

The subsequent survey results are weighted to reflect the known demographic profile of Irish adults, utilising the most recently published census population estimates from the Central Statistics Office (CSO).

Party Support

Party support levels are subsequently realigned in accordance with a technical adjustment factor, designed to smooth the effects of extreme highs and lows in support levels for individual parties as measured at a single point in time, and taking variable election day turnout levels into account.

Guidelines

All aspects of the survey, including the Party Support adjustment factor, are implemented in accordance with the technical and ethical guidelines set down by the Association of Irish Market Research Organisations (AIMRO) and the European Society of Opinion & Market Research (ESOMAR).

Party Support Adjustment Factor: Technical Note

- Predicting election results on the basis of poll data is not an exact science. All the evidence shows that support for individual parties can swing dramatically in the period between elections- very often outside the bounds of historic election results.
- What to do in these circumstances? Most polling companies in Britain and Ireland publish their raw survey results as an index of fluctuations in the emotional mood of voters. They also build in an adjustment based on a number of factors. Where we have reports of how people voted in the last general election as well as how they intend to vote in the next one we can use these data to model the likely level of swing from the last election results.
- We then add back in the forecasts of voters who have not voted last time or do not answer that particular question.
- Finally we take into account each individuals stated likelihood of voting in a forthcoming General Election.
- This is the basis of the adjusted voting forecast in Behaviour & Attitudes polls.

Adjusted figures based on:

- All who state they would definitely vote
- Weighting of those respondents who give a definite answer as to who they would vote for in a general election and who they voted for in the last election, a quarter of the way between stated voting intention and the result of the last election.
- Making no adjustment to stated voting intention of those who do not indicate how they voted in last election.

Commentary

Background

Fieldwork for today's poll was conducted over the period Thursday 6th January to Tuesday 18th January, 2022.

When the latest Behaviour & Attitudes (B&A)/ Sunday Times January Poll commenced on 6th January, Covid case numbers were soaring. The debate around school reopening was intense, with potential absenteeism of teachers being discussed. In line with public sentiment, the schools reopened, to the relief of many parents. The prevailing fear was that the rapid spread of Omicron could overwhelm our hospitals, as hospital numbers surpassed 1,000 for first time since February 2021.

However, Nphet decided not to recommend further Covid restrictions, despite case numbers increasing to over 26,000 in early January. Thus with the country effectively remaining open, and booster adoption high – the country was in a much more positive position compared to January 2021.

During this period it emerged that Nphet were reviewing mandatory vaccination, and that a paper was being prepared on legal and ethical aspects. However the Taoiseach quickly moved to voice his opposition to any such introduction. As case numbers started to stabilise, a narrative emerged around the easing of Covid restrictions for close contacts and the 'hope to relax restrictions soon'.

Avoiding a winter lockdown and severe mortality has undoubtedly marked a turning point in our fight against Covid. The murmurings from political circles about a further relaxation of restrictions soon, and a 31st March full reopening will undoubtedly be welcomed by the public.

It was not all Covid news during fieldwork, with much media attention around inflation, which included recommended pay rises.

Party Support and Leader Satisfaction Levels

The successful booster campaign coupled with the fact that Ireland has largely remained open, with most businesses and schools functioning, has undoubtedly given a boost to the Government. Satisfaction with the Government is up 4% points from 40% in December to 44% in January (its highest point since July '21). Just under half (47%) remaining dissatisfied with the current Government.

Mary Lou McDonald clings onto the most popular leader title (49%) and remains at similar levels to 2021. Micheál Martin is the main mover, up six percentage points with 48% of the electorate now satisfied with his performance (his highest rating since June 2021).

Leo Varadkar's satisfaction remains similar to 2021, with 49% of the electorate satisfied with his performance. Both Martin's and Varadkar's satisfaction is stronger amongst those over 55 years of age.

Eamon Ryan's satisfaction stands at 33% (a 4% point increase) with Alan Kelly also up a similar proportion to 42% of voters satisfied with his performance. It is a case that most boats have risen this January. It remains to be seen will the tide turn if inflation and the cost of living start to bite further – so keep a watchful eye.

Party Support and Leader Satisfaction Levels

Sinn Féin support has remained steady, with 34% of the electorate indicating it would vote for the party in the event of a General Election. They remain by far the most popular party. The party is strong across all demographics, but particularly amongst those aged 18-34 years.

Fianna Fáil has remained slightly ahead of Fine Gael with 24% support (up one percentage point), Fine Gael stand at 22% (up two percentage points). Note while the movements for the latter parties are not statistically significant, they represent an increase for Fianna Fáil and Fine Gael at the expense of parties and independents other than Sinn Féin. Labour has decreased by one percentage point to 4%. The Green's have decreased by two percentage points to 3% - neither are significant.

As we enter the third year of the pandemic, with a strong vaccination rollout and more understanding of the virus, people will expect a solid plan on how we will live with Covid going forward. In addition, if Covid activity reduces, the fundamentals that impact the day to day lives of people (e.g. housing, etc.) will have increased prominence as the year progresses.

Support for Mandatory Vaccinations

In terms of mandatory vaccinations for certain cohorts of the population, the greatest level of support is for the mandatory vaccination of healthcare workers, with 55% of the electorate supporting mandatory vaccinations for them and 40% not supporting, with 4% don't know.

About half (49%) of the electorate support mandatory vaccinations for other (non-healthcare) public facing workers, such as public transport workers, Gardaí, teachers and grocery store workers.

43% support mandatory vaccinations for people working in offices, while 42% support mandatory vaccinations for all adults aged 18+ years. Support drops for mandatory vaccinations for all people aged 13+ years (32%) and is lowest for those aged 7+ years (26%).

A significant age difference is evident. The older the electorate, the greater the support for mandatory vaccinations in general. For example, two thirds (67%) of those aged 55+ support mandatory vaccinations for healthcare workers, compared to 51% support amongst 35-54 years olds and 47% amongst those aged under 35 years.

Fianna Fail supporters are most in favour of mandatory vaccinations in general (most likely due to their age), which could present a dilemma for the Taoiseach to navigate.

Key issues facing Ireland today

The top 3 groups of issues centre on:

Health Services/ Hospitals/ Mental Health	➔	66%	Rural electorate particularly mention (72%), also Sinn Féin supporters are significantly more likely to mention the health services (74%)
Housing	➔	62%	Dubliners (74%) and under 35s (69%) in particular raise the housing issue.
Economy/ Jobs	➔	35%	Interestingly there is more of a focus here amongst Fianna Fáil supporters.

Covid concern stands at 42%, up 9 percentage points on the B&A/Sunday Times Sept '21 poll.

Sustainability/ environment issues and climate change is only mentioned as a top 3 issue by 7% of the electorate, and more by middle classes, Dubliners and Green Party supporters.

The political parties will have a challenge in terms of supporting the issues of 'greater good' versus the issues that directly impact voters. A balancing act with careful communication will be necessary.

However, a solid plan for how we live with this virus and tackle any new variants is likely to be sought by the public and especially businesses. Covid has not left the building, as the WHO is at pains to stress.
