Technical Appendix

Weighting

The subsequent survey results are weighted to reflect the known demographic profile of Irish adults, utilising the most recently published census population estimates from the Central Statistics Office (CSO).

Party Support

Party support levels are subsequently realigned in accordance with a technical adjustment factor, designed to smooth the effects of extreme highs and lows in support levels for individual parties as measured at a single point in time, and taking variable election day turnout levels into account.

Guidelines

All aspects of the survey, including the Party Support adjustment factor, are implemented in accordance with the technical and ethical guidelines set down by the Association of Irish Market Research Organisations (AIMRO) and the European Society of Opinion & Market Research (ESOMAR).

Party Support Adjustment Factor: Technical Note

- Predicting election results on the basis of poll data is not an exact science. All the evidence shows that support for individual parties can swing dramatically in the period between elections- very often outside the bounds of historic election results.
- What to do in these circumstances? Most polling companies in Britain and Ireland publish their raw survey results as an index of fluctuations in the emotional mood of voters. They also build in an adjustment based on a number of factors. Where we have reports of how people voted in the last general election as well as how they intend to vote in the next one we can use these data to model the likely level of swing from the last election results.
- We then add back in the forecasts of voters who have not voted last time or do not answer that particular question.
- Finally we take into account each individuals stated likelihood of voting in a forthcoming General Election.
- This is the basis of the adjusted voting forecast in Behaviour & Attitudes polls.

Adjusted figures based on:

- All who state they would definitely vote
- Weighting of those respondents who give a definite answer as to who they would vote for in a general election and who they voted for in the last election, a quarter of the way between stated voting intention and the result of the last election.
- Making no adjustment to stated voting intention of those who do not indicate how they voted in last election.

Commentary

Background

- The war in Ukraine dominated the headlines throughout this polling period. President Zelenskyy continued his powerful daily PR approach to the war addressing the UN, the Grammys and the Oireachtas, amongst other institutions and countries.
- Over the last few weeks we learnt the names of towns in Ukraine, such as Bucha, which will be burnt into the minds of the western world for the emerging Russian atrocities, which have triggered global outrage.
- Ireland called for 'full accountability' for atrocities in Ukraine, with Simon Coveney particularly vocal. A diplomatic tit-for-tat ensued with Ireland expelling two Russian diplomats and in return two Irish diplomats were expelled from Moscow. Simon Coveney visited Kyiv to discuss their EU membership bid, and subsequently reported on his visit in an address to the United Nations Security Council, calling on Russia to agree to an immediate humanitarian ceasefire.
- Ukrainian refugees continued to arrive in Ireland with accommodation an increasing challenge. How this plays out, in an existing accommodation crisis, will be interesting.
- The war prompted much dialogue about Ireland's future neutrality, and defence.
- Rising inflation and cost of living was the source of constant debate, with the war now undoubtedly impacting at many different levels; energy, food and raw materials, etc., causing a denting of consumer confidence. Various advocacy groups stated their cases for helping more vulnerable cohorts. Economic forecasts were being revised downwards, albeit still broadly positive. And against this background a surge in people flying abroad caused significant delays at Dublin Airport.

Background

- Almost under the radar, the Dáil approved the carbon budgets that set out the maximum amount of greenhouse gases that can be emitted in Ireland during a five-year period.
- We were reminded, albeit more timidly than before, that Covid-19 had not gone away with a threefold increase in hospitalisations with Omicron since early February, albeit hospitalisations started to decline during the polling period. At the same time, the 'Holohan to Trinity' saga ended when Dr. Tony Holohan stated he would not be taking the TCD role and would retire as CMO in July.
- Elsewhere, Ivana Bacik was confirmed as the new Labour leader in the days leading up to the poll,
- The polling period ended with Zelenskyy declaring that Russia has begun the 'Battle of Donbas', and almost 15,000 test positive for Covid-19 over Easter break. Undoubtedly, the length of the Ukraine war and its fallout, combined with the trajectory of Covid will define the Irish economy for 2022.

Government and Leader Satisfaction Levels

Government satisfaction is up one percentage point (not significant) from March standing at 44% of the population satisfied with its performance. Half (48%) remain dissatisfied with the current Government. Satisfaction levels with the Government are higher amongst older (55+), more middle class, and Dublin voters, while blue collar and more rural cohorts remain significantly less satisfied.

Micheál Martin's satisfaction rating increases two percentage points to 51%. He retains the most popular leader title; just ahead of Mary Lou McDonald.

Mary Lou McDonald's satisfaction rating has increased by two percentage points from 47% to 49%.

Leo Varadkar's rating is stable at 42%.

Eamon Ryan's satisfaction has dropped significantly from 34% to 28% (down six percentage points). Comments around the need to conserve home energy, driving slower and the potential banning of turf sale and distribution in tandem with a mindset of soaring energy prices might have contributed to his dent in satisfaction.

Ivana Bacik's first outing is a 46% satisfaction rating, significantly higher than Alan Kelly's last rating of 39%, but similar to that achieved by Alan Kelly in his first poll rating in September 2020. Her rating is not surprisingly highest amongst Dubliners (62%), middle class voters (52%) and those over 55 years of age (57%).

Party Support and Leader Satisfaction Levels

Sinn Féin support has slipped for the second consecutive poll (albeit not significantly, by one percentage point), to 32%. However, they remain by far the most popular party.

Fine Gael maintains the uplift registered in the last Poll with 24% of the electorate likely to vote for this party in the event of a General Election. Fianna Fail stand at 23% (no change on March). Labour have increased by two points to 5% (getting a bounce from their new leader). The Green Party are unchanged at 4% support (despite Eamon Ryan's satisfaction decline).

Concern around the cost of living continued to dominate, with concerns around housing and the health service very prominent. The Ukrainian invasion continues to dent Irish consumer confidence (as can be seen in recent B&A Confidence Barometers).

How the influx of refugees and their accommodation needs are dealt with will likely be a topic of conversation over the coming months. The Irish public appear to be over their initial flush of enthusiasm for refugees with the reality now kicking in.

It is unlikely that the Ukraine war will end soon and thus we will likely be on a 'war' footing for some time. The more left leaning parties will need to navigate the current situation with care as we know how public sentiment can turn. Ireland's position in the new world order will need to be carefully navigated, however an opportunity exists to position Ireland positively across a number of areas; social consciousness, energy/sustainability and a good place to do business. One thing is certain, strong leadership will be required.

Specific Poll Questions

The specific questions in this poll focused on the Ukrainian Crisis.

- About half the population are open to taking in a Ukrainian refugee, if they had a spare bedroom. This is significantly higher for middle class voters and those in Dublin. Also, Sinn Féin, Fine Gael and Green Party supporters report a higher openness to taking in a Ukrainian refugee.
- About three in five voters feel Ireland should set a cap on the number of refugees we take in from the Ukraine. Note this is significantly higher among Sinn Féin voters (despite their higher incidences of being open to taking a refugee).
- The question was then posed as to what the cap on Ukrainian refugees should be. About one third of the population believe it should be up to 20,000 refugees, with a further quarter not wishing it to exceed 20,000-40,000. Dubliners desiring a cap on refugees were more focused on a 20,000-refugee ceiling.
- Two thirds of voters are opposed to Ireland taking part in a joint European Military Defense organisation. Dubliners, while still opposed, were more likely to be in favour compared to those outside. Fine Gael and Independent voters are also more likely to be in favour. Seven in ten voters are opposed to Ireland dropping its traditional military neutrality and applying to join NATO, with Green Party voters most opposed and Fine Gael supporters more in favour compared to other supporters.
