Weighting

The subsequent survey results are weighted to reflect the known demographic profile of Irish adults, utilising the most recently published census population estimates from the Central Statistics Office (CSO).

Party Support

Party support levels are subsequently realigned in accordance with a technical adjustment factor, designed to smooth the effects of extreme highs and lows in support levels for individual parties as measured at a single point in time, and taking variable election day turnout levels into account.

Guidelines

All aspects of the survey, including the Party Support adjustment factor, are implemented in accordance with the technical and ethical guidelines set down by the Association of Irish Market Research Organisations (AIMRO) and the European Society of Opinion & Market Research (ESOMAR).

Party Support Adjustment Factor: Technical Note

- Predicting election results on the basis of poll data is not an exact science. All the evidence shows that support for individual parties can swing dramatically in the period between elections- very often outside the bounds of historic election results.
- What to do in these circumstances? Most polling companies in Britain and Ireland publish their raw survey results as an index of fluctuations in the emotional mood of voters. They also build in an adjustment based on a number of factors. Where we have reports of how people voted in the last general election as well as how they intend to vote in the next one we can use these data to model the likely level of swing from the last election results.
- We then add back in the forecasts of voters who have not voted last time or do not answer that particular question.
- Finally we take into account each individuals stated likelihood of voting in a forthcoming General Election.
- This is the basis of the adjusted voting forecast in Behaviour & Attitudes polls.

Adjusted figures based on:

- All who state they would definitely vote
- Weighting of those respondents who give a definite answer as to who they would vote for in a general election and who they voted for in the last election, a quarter of the way between stated voting intention and the result of the last election.
- Making no adjustment to stated voting intention of those who do not indicate how they voted in last election.

Commentary

Background

- As we review the background to this poll conducted 5th May - 7th June 2022, the phrase coined by James Carville thirty years ago, “The economy, stupid”, springs to mind. Carville, Bill Clinton's successful 1992 presidential campaign strategist also had two other key messages; "Change vs. more of the same" and "Don't forget health care." Aspects of such messaging might indeed resonate today.
- While people were queuing like never before to go on holidays, the clouds of economic negativity were clearly visible. Eurozone inflation was being reported at 8.1%. Inflation was hitting wages, while energy and food prices continued to rise. Covid supply chain shortages are being exasperated by Chinese Covid lockdowns, and the war in Ukraine, and increased shortages will impact many aspects of economies for a considerable time to come. The OECD this week were predicting global GDP would reach 2.9% this year — an estimate lower than its 4.1% forecast in January.
- Iberdrola pulled out of the Irish energy market, and Ulster Bank and KBC continued their closure messaging. House prices continued to rise, with building costs soaring to all-time highs.
- The talk in Davos centred on war, inflation and the food crisis, with many indicators clearly in the red zone. Strange times indeed. In Ireland are at near total employment, but inflation is soaring, and interest rate rises are on the horizon. It feels like this winter might be quite unpalatable. All we need is a significant Covid variant spread thrown into the mix.

Government and Leader Satisfaction Levels

Government satisfaction stands at 42% of the population satisfied with its performance (two percentage points down - no significant change from May). Half (48%) remain dissatisfied with the current Government. Satisfaction levels with the Government are higher amongst older (55+) voters.

Micheál Martin's satisfaction rating drops three percentage points to 50%.

Mary Lou McDonald's satisfaction rating remains at 52%, a rating that places her back in the most popular leader position.

Leo Varadkar's rating shows no change and stands at 44%.

Eamon Ryan's satisfaction rating, which had dropped significantly in recent polls has increased by three percentage points to 31%.

Ivana Bacik's third outing is a 45% satisfaction rating, (down three percentage points on our May poll), but this still places her satisfaction rating ahead of Leo Varadkar.

Party Support and Leader Satisfaction Levels

Sinn Féin's support which increased by four percentage points in May, post the Northern Ireland Assembly Elections, has increased a further percentage point to 37% of the electorate stating they would vote for them in the event of a General Election. They remain by far the most popular party in the Republic of Ireland.

Fine Gael has seen a significant recovery of the ground lost in the last wave, with an increase of four percentage points from 19% to 23%. Fianna Fail stand at 22% (drop of two percentage points). Labour are stable on 5%. The Green Party also recover ground with support increasing to 4% (up two percentage points).

Smaller parties and Independents have taken a hit, most likely as people become uneasy with the economic outlook, and search for those they perceive affect change. It is likely that these declines will settle back.

Consumer confidence is dented, and people are worried about the economy and the cost of living. A general feeling exists that even the economists are reluctant to predict the next 18 months. To quote Mr. Wilde, "To expect the unexpected shows a thoroughly modern intellect", and we are undoubtedly in the territory of the unexpected.
