Weighting

The subsequent survey results are weighted to reflect the known demographic profile of Irish adults, utilising the most recently published census population estimates from the Central Statistics Office (CSO).

Party Support

Party support levels are subsequently realigned in accordance with a technical adjustment factor, designed to smooth the effects of extreme highs and lows in support levels for individual parties as measured at a single point in time, and taking variable election day turnout levels into account.

Guidelines

All aspects of the survey, including the Party Support adjustment factor, are implemented in accordance with the technical and ethical guidelines set down by the Association of Irish Market Research Organisations (AIMRO) and the European Society of Opinion & Market Research (ESOMAR).

Party Support Adjustment Factor: Technical Note

- Predicting election results on the basis of poll data is not an exact science. All the evidence shows that support for individual parties can swing dramatically in the period between elections- very often outside the bounds of historic election results.
- What to do in these circumstances? Most polling companies in Britain and Ireland publish their raw survey results as an index of fluctuations in the emotional mood of voters. They also build in an adjustment based on a number of factors. Where we have reports of how people voted in the last general election as well as how they intend to vote in the next one we can use these data to model the likely level of swing from the last election results.
- We then add back in the forecasts of voters who have not voted last time or do not answer that particular question.
- Finally we take into account each individuals stated likelihood of voting in a forthcoming General Election.
- This is the basis of the adjusted voting forecast in Behaviour & Attitudes polls.

Adjusted figures based on:

- All who state they would definitely vote
- Weighting of those respondents who give a definite answer as to who they would vote for in a general election and who they voted for in the last election, a quarter of the way between stated voting intention and the result of the last election.
- Making no adjustment to stated voting intention of those who do not indicate how they voted in last election.

Commentary

Background

- This latest Sunday Times/Behaviour & Attitudes poll was conducted 30th June - 12th July 2022.
- Over the course of the fieldwork period, the cost of living and inflation dominated the headlines, with a clamour of calls for an emergency budget to address the cost-of-living crisis. The CSO Harmonised Index of Consumer Prices Flash Estimate for June 2022 indicated that prices in Ireland have risen by 9.6% in the year to June 2022; this compares to an annual increase of 8.6% in the Eurozone. Looking at the components of the flash HICP for Ireland in June 2022, energy is estimated to be up by 54.0% since June 2021.
- The media commentary was around inflation expectations above 10 per cent in the third quarter, a level not seen since the early 1980s.
- While Irish households are in a better place than in the aftermath of the last financial crash, some households will undoubtedly suffer quite badly. Reports highlighted that calls to money advice helplines and many charities were at the highest level in over a decade. Rent arrears, the cost of utilities and basic food and clothing were the biggest concerns for people contacting such organisations. Budget day, now pencilled in for September 27th, cannot come soon enough for many. The Government appear though to be in a no-win situation, with the OECD warning of slowing growth in euro zone and farther afield, and the 'R' word being whispered. The budget lobbying has started in earnest and there are perhaps too many deserving causes. A requirement by Government to conjure some 'Multiplication of the Loaves and Fish' (John 6:1-15) suddenly springs to mind.

Background

- However, while we have high inflation, low consumer confidence and falling stocks, during this fieldwork period, the Central Bank was still expecting Ireland to record modified domestic demand growth, but forecast has been revised down to 4.3% in 2022. Employment, one of the crucial metrics, is at a record high of 2.5 million, 8 per cent above pre-pandemic levels. So, while most peoples' real income is down, at least we have employment. In fact, one of the challenges is a shortage of labour.
- Thus, while metrics are surging up and down, they need to be interpreted with care as this volatility is far from over. What is becoming clear is that the trajectory of the Ukraine war will ultimately decide our economic fate.

Government and Leader Satisfaction Levels

Government satisfaction stands at 39% of the population satisfied with its performance (three percentage points down, which is a five point decline since May). Now over half (54%) are dissatisfied with the current Government (a significant difference compared to last month, up six percentage points). Satisfaction levels with the Government are higher amongst older (55+) and middle class voters. Compared to this point last year, the Government is down seven percentage points.

Micheál Martin's satisfaction rating drops three percentage points for the second consecutive wave to 47%.

Mary Lou McDonald's satisfaction rating has slipped slightly from 52% to 49%. Despite this, she retains the most popular leader mantle.

Leo Varadkar's satisfaction level has declined from 44% last wave to 39%. Compared to this time last year Leo Varadkar is down nine percentage points.

Eamon Ryan's satisfaction rating declines again from 31% to 26%. He now stands at six percentage points down compared to this time last year.

Ivana Bacik rating is up one percentage point to a 46% satisfaction rating.

Most party leaders have taken a hit (except Ivana Bacik), as people appear to be venting on the rising cost-of-living.

Party Support and Leader Satisfaction Levels

Sinn Féin's support stands at 36% (down one percentage point). They remain the most popular party. In fact they are up nine percentage points compared to this time last year.

Fine Gael has seen a drop of two percentage points from 23% to 21% (not significant). Fianna Fail stand at 21% (drop of one percentage point). Labour are up one point to 6%. The Green Party are also up one point to 5% levels of support.

Volatility is the nature of the game currently. However, the Government is heading into winter which might prove to be even more unpalatable. Strength and clarity of leadership will be important as the temperature drops, and the skies darken.

Opinion of Michael D. Higgins

The vast majority, 4 in 5 voters (80%) are satisfied with the way Michael D. Higgins is doing his job as President.

In addition to this, 4 in 5 believe it was correct of the President to state in his public speech that our housing situation was 'a disaster' and was Ireland's 'great, great, great failure'?

Slightly less (54%) felt he was right to turn down an invitation to join the Queen at a church service in Armagh in October to mark the Centenary of NI (albeit 25% had no opinion, with 21% feeling he was not correct).

His comments on Fidel Castro were much more polarising however, with about one quarter (27%) feeling he was not correct to describe Fidel Castro as 'a giant among world leaders' who sought freedom for all oppressed people on the planet, while 35% felt he was correct (38% had no opinion).

63% felt he has not exceeded his authority in any of the statements (18% think he did, 19% no opinion).

The vast majority (81%) do not think Michael D. Higgins should resign for any of these decisions or statements (6% believe he should resign, 13% have no opinion).
